Estyn's latest campaign, Ready Already, aims to reassure education providers across Wales that there is no need to overprepare for inspection, but to teach as they usually would.

You may have experienced the changes to school and Pupil Referral Unit inspections, introduced in 2022, including no summative gradings of 'Excellent', 'Good', 'Adequate', or 'Unsatisfactory'. Our approach has created more opportunities for learners, leaders, teachers and support staff to contribute constructively to collaborative conversations about their setting's inspection.

Ready Already is an informative campaign featuring providers in various roles, who have recent experience of the latest inspection framework and who provide honest feedback on inspections providing opportunity to highlight best practices or offer additional support where required, for practitioner progress and improvement, where required.

Take a look at the digital trailers and give Estyn your feedback – they are inviting you to contribute your own experience and suggestions.

Engage with the #ReadyAlready campaign channels and please feel free to repost and share campaign materials.
