Estyn, Her Majesty's Inspectorate for Education and Training in Wales

During each inspection, inspectors aim to answer three key questions:

Key Question 1: How good are the outcomes?

Key Question 2: How good is provision?

Key Question 3: How good are leadership and management?

Inspectors also provide an overall judgement on the setting's current performance and on its prospects for improvement.

In these evaluations, inspectors use a four-point scale:

Judgement	What the judgement means
Excellent	Many strengths, including significant examples of sector-leading practice
Good	Many strengths and no important areas requiring significant improvement
Adequate	Strengths outweigh areas for improvement
Unsatisfactory	Important areas for improvement outweigh strengths

About the setting

Cylch Meithrin Coedmor is run in accordance with the recognised guidelines of Mudiad Meithrin. The setting is registered under the Children Act 1989.

The setting was established in 1980 at its present location. It is situated in a portacabin in the school yard of Ysgol Gynradd Carreg Hirfaen in the village of Cwmann on the outskirts of the town of Lampeter.

The nursery provides care for children from the local community and surrounding areas for five mornings a week from Monday to Friday between 8.40 a.m. and 12.00 p.m. during school terms. Children of two years and upwards attend and they leave after their third birthday when they begin in the nursery at Ysgol Gynradd Carreg Hirfaen or other schools in the area. At present twenty one children are registered of whom eleven are funded. A maximum of twelve children attends each session.

The area is recognised as one which is neither advantaged nor disadvantaged.

It is a Welsh medium setting but children of different linguistic backgrounds also attend and children from ethnic minorities are welcome although there were none present during the inspection. Seven children come from homes where Welsh is the first language and five from homes in which English is the main language. At present there is no child who is identified as having additional learning needs. The children who are not from Welsh-speaking homes develop their knowledge and understanding of Welsh through their experiences in the nursery and the Welsh which is spoken by the practitioners.

Two members of staff are employed including the temporary leader and they attend each session. The leader is a qualified teacher who has extensive experience of early years education. The other practitioner is about to complete her NVQ level 3 qualification in the care and education of young children. Both practitioners have received training for the Foundation Phase. The setting is managed by a management committee.

The last inspection by Care and Social Services Inspectorate Wales was conducted on 6th August 2011 and the nursery was inspected by Estyn in January 2006.

Summary

The Setting's current performance	Good
The Setting's prospects for improvement	Good

Current performance

The provider's current performance is good for the following reasons:

- children achieve well and make good progress from their starting point;
- children feel happy and safe in the setting;
- children receive exciting experiences which match well their interests;
- the teaching is of a consistently good standard;
- assessment through observation and the effective use made of this to plan the next steps, and
- the strong partnerships with parents and the school.

Prospects for improvement

The provider's prospects for improvement are good for the following reasons:

- there is a culture of professional reflection which is based on self-evaluation;
- the good standard of leadership;
- the setting's commitment to continuous professional development, and
- the effective support of the management committee.

Recommendations

In order to maintain and improve provision and achievements practitioners should:

R1 extend children's knowledge of other cultures and of sustainable development, and

R2 continue to develop the process of self-evaluation and to monitor regularly the targets which have been set.

What happens next?

The setting will produce an action plan which sets out how these recommendations will be met.

Main findings

Key Question 1: How good are outcomes?

Judgement

Standards: Good

Every child achieves well according to their starting point and stage of development and each child makes good progress in all the areas of learning of the Foundation Phase.

Almost all children, including those from non Welsh-speaking homes develop a sound vocabulary and knowledge of language patterns. The majority understands and follows instructions correctly and answers questions appropriately. With the encouragement of adults the majority speaks in full sentences. They listen with interest to stories, concentrating well and recite together sections they know. The majority develops a wide vocabulary and they sometimes use this during role play.

They very much enjoy singing songs and enunciate clearly. The majority enjoys browsing through books and they choose books voluntarily, treating them like readers. All enjoy mark-making both inside and in the outside area and they experiment confidently with a wide range of materials. Every child uses mathematical language correctly when comparing the length, height or size of objects when playing. The majority uses fingers to count and they recognise common shapes. They develop their information and communications technology skills well through using a laptop and computer programs, an 'i-pod' and a microphone to record and follow instructions.

The majority demonstrates good creative skills during role play, responding to music through dance and in their art work.

The majority develops good levels of independence, self-confidence and self-control. The majority concentrates for extended periods while playing or exploring their outdoor environment and all enjoy their learning.

Wellbeing: Good

The children enjoy their experiences in the setting. The close and warm relationship between the adults and the children gives them a feeling of safety and contentment. The self-confidence and happiness of the children shows that they are appreciated and respected and they, in turn, respect and like the adults. They show concern for one another, the practitioners and visitors.

Each one understands that eating healthily, dental hygiene and keeping fit are important to their health and they name healthy foods and things they should not eat. They enjoy eating their snack together every day and they behave beautifully at the table. Every child goes to the toilet independently and then washes his/her hands.

All have a positive and enthusiastic attitude to learning and take an active and energetic part in their learning experiences and behave very well.

They are courteous at all times and the majority shows consideration towards others. The majority makes friends in the nursery and they are very fond of one another. They look for their friends to play with them and demonstrate concern for them.

All the children make decisions and choices about their learning and almost all are very confident.

Key Question 2: How good is provision?	Good

Learning experiences: Good

Before planning practitioners evaluate the week's provision and results. They discuss the achievements, progress and needs of each individual child in addition to general matters. Observations which have been made are considered and practitioners use all this information to plan the next cycle of provision. The planning matches well the needs and interests of the children and a wide range of exciting and practical experiences is planned which enables the children to make good progress towards meeting the outcomes of the Foundation Phase. The planning is flexible and practitioners were seen to adapt it in order to meet children's interests for example when some children decided to make a picnic for the cat and teddies outside. Adults build well on the knowledge, understanding, skills and interests of the children in activities which are meaningful to them.

Almost every child develops into an enthusiastic, confident and independent learner and all develop good thinking, creative, physical, linguistic and mathematical skills in all areas of learning. They demonstrate good creative skills when painting and drawing original pictures. All display great interest in the world around them and they possess a very good knowledge as a result of the constant opportunities they receive to explore their immediate environment through activities such as feeding the birds who visit their small garden. Practitioners have begun to develop children's knowledge of sustainable development through the re-cycling of paper, glass and plastic and by growing vegetables.

Children develop good relationships with others and they demonstrate respect and tolerance towards everyone including people from different cultural backgrounds.

They receive a good model of natural Welsh and are encouraged by practitioners to speak Welsh at all times and to develop their language through listening to stories and a wide range of rhymes and songs. They celebrate the Welsh culture in many ways including holding a St David's Day concert for the community and through exploring and playing in the school grounds, for example, in the Celtic house. Children enjoy visiting places in the community and further afield which are related to the theme, for example, Pentre' Bach.

Teaching: Good

Practitioners have a good knowledge of child development and current developments in the field. They understand well the requirements of the Foundation Phase and have high expectations of each child according to his/ her stage of development. Behaviour is managed positively in a sensitive manner and as a result, children learn lifelong dispositions including the importance of showing respect and kindness towards others.

Practitioners use well a variety of interesting teaching strategies to stimulate the children to learn. They make effective use of open-ended questions in order to extend the children's learning and their thinking skills. The flexibility of the teaching meets well the children's individual needs. The flexible organisation ensures good opportunities for the children to make their own decisions about their learning and develops well their independence and self-confidence. Practitioners intervene effectively to extend children's learning while they are engaged in their experiences.

Practitioners know and understand the children well. They assess through observing the children while they engage in their experiences noting significant things and discussing their observations. The information gathered is fed into the next stage of planning; this is a good feature. They track children's progress regularly and keep a termly record of their achievements in all areas of learning; parents receive a full and informative report about their children when they leave to attend school.

Care, support and guidance: Good

Practitioners have created a family atmosphere in the setting where children feel comfortable and happy. Each child is valued and respect is shown for their ideas and interests.

Practitioners develop well the children's awareness of the importance of healthy eating and keeping fit. Children's curiosity about their lives and beliefs and those of others is developed well, for example, through celebrating Diwali and the Chinese New Year. They celebrate the main Christian festivals such as Christmas and Easter and say a prayer before going home. Practitioners develop well in the children a sense of awe and wonder about the world around them particularly through the regular opportunities they have to explore their natural environment.

Practitioners nurture well the morals and values they believe are necessary to the holistic development of the responsible child. The children learn about the importance of fairness, honesty and truth and they know well the difference between right and wrong in the context of their lives in the setting. The provision enables the children to socialise well, to take responsibility, to display initiative and to develop a good understanding of living and sharing within their small community. They have regular opportunities to make decisions and they enjoy their learning.

The relationship between the setting, the school and outside agencies is good. The close relationship with the school ensures a particularly successful transfer to the nursery class for the children. The children go to the school regularly and for five sessions before they begin. They know the head teacher and teachers well and enjoy their visits to the school.

A selection of parents said they were very satisfied with every aspect of the setting's provision and they feel that their children receive very good care.

The setting has an appropriate Child Protection policy. The staff are aware of its contents and the steps to be followed and have received training in child protection. All the necessary procedures for Child Protection are in place and they reflect the requirements of the All Wales Child Protection Procedures 2008.

There are no children with additional learning needs at present and every child has access to all areas of learning and all the rich experiences provided.

Learning environment: Good

Practitioners have created a family ethos where the children feel very happy and comfortable. Adults show affection and kindness towards each child. Practitioners know the needs and interests of the children very well and they respond to them with sensitivity using their thorough knowledge of the children's backgrounds. Each child has equal access to every aspect of the curriculum. As a result of the affection and respect for the child and the values and the standards and values displayed by the staff, the children develop tolerance, positive attitudes towards their learning and good behaviour.

The setting has positive policies and procedures for dealing with any problems of aggressive behaviour and to promote equal opportunities and the rights of the child. These are known to all and are monitored and implemented effectively. The nursery is registered by the Care and Social Services Inspectorate Wales and there were no recommendations in its last report. Risk assessments are conducted regularly.

The ratio of adults to children is good and each practitioner has appropriate qualifications. Practitioners address the requirements of the Foundation Phase well and the children receive interesting experiences which respond well to their specific needs. The room is adequate in size to provide interesting experiences in each area of learning. All children show concern and kindness towards their peers, adults and visitors.

Practitioners use the outside area consistently in order to provide children with stimulating experiences and opportunities to engage fully with things which interest them. They use this area well also to promote children's skills across each area of learning and to provide activities which develop their ability to concentrate and persevere. The setting's use of its immediate environment and the community enriches well children's learning experiences.

Key Question 3: How good are leadership and management?

Leadership: Good

The leader gives clear and strong direction to all aspects of the life of the nursery and the process of improvement. She and the practitioner work together well and share clear principles and objectives which are based on a good understanding of child development. These are seen to be implemented in the active and interesting learning experiences which the children receive and the system of organisation which enables children to make decisions and choices about their learning, to develop self-confidence and independence and to make good progress.

Both fulfill their responsibilities effectively demonstrating a strong commitment to their role in the interests of the children. Both contribute to the strategic planning of nursery. They share the values they wish to promote by personal example and through discussion. They have high expectations of both themselves, the staff and of the children together with targets which will ensure good provision and high standards of achievement. Progress towards achieving them is monitored regularly.

The setting improvement plan is derived from the results of the setting's self-evaluation process and gives clear direction to the life and work of the setting.

The management committee is well informed about everything that happens in the setting. Its members understand and fulfil their roles well. They are well informed about the performance of the setting which they discuss in their regular meetings. The registered person visits the regularly and the setting benefits greatly from her support. The committee makes good use of thorough information to make effective decisions and it fulfills its legal responsibilities.

The leader meets national and local priorities in accordance with the requirements of the Assembly and the local authority.

Improving quality: Good

The setting makes effective use of its self-evaluation to identify strengths and areas for improvement. The self-evaluation report is thorough and leads to sound strategies for improvement which ensure positive outcomes for each child. Leaders consult with parents and care-givers in order to inform the self-evaluation. They use the information collected from parents' questionnaires to gather opinions and to identify areas for improvement.

The setting makes effective use of the support of the local authority's advisory teacher and the Mudiad Meithrin officer and implements promptly and successfully their recommendations.

Following the process of self-evaluation a setting improvement plan is produced which indicates a good awareness of the setting's performance and focuses on raising standards by improving provision and setting clear targets. Both practitioners and the management committee contribute to this.

Practitioners undergo an annual appraisal interview with the chair of the management committee in order to identify their continuing professional development needs. They attend training courses regularly and the positive impact of this is seen in the teaching and children's welfare as practitioners implement what they have learned.

Partnership working: Good

The setting works well with others in order to provide learning experiences. The leader works closely and effectively with the local authority's Foundation Phase advisory teacher in order to improve provision and to raise standards.

Practitioners work closely with all stakeholders, especially parents and care givers, and are very willing to consult with them and to implement their suggestions.

The partnership with the school is a very good feature. Practitioners work closely with the school's nursery teacher and this partnership has a positive effect on standards. The school and setting share expertise and resources and the setting benefits greatly from this.

Resource management: Good

Practitioners are well deployed in order to make the most effective use of their expertise and to ensure good provision. They use resources indoors and outdoors creatively in order to provide exciting learning experiences for the children and to broaden their horizons. They measure the effect of resources on learning and teaching and plan well for future resource needs. Practitioners use the outdoors well to develop children's skills in all areas of learning.

Leaders make the best possible use of the setting's resources and budget in order to offer the best provision. The setting provides good value for money.

Appendix 1

Responses to the parents' questionnaire

Fifteen replies were received to the parent/guardian questionnaire. Nearly all said they are happy with the setting's provision. Any strengths or areas for development identified in the questionnaires by individual parents were considered during the inspection. Discussions with a large selection of parents during the inspection indicated they are happy with all aspects of the setting's provision.

Response to discussions with children

Every child is comfortable when talking with a visitor and they say that they are very happy in the nursery. They talk about their friends and say that they know what to do if they are unhappy or worried about something.
